Introducing David G. Irvine ~ Choral Music Director

At the recommendation of the search committee, Session is pleased to announce the hiring of David Irvine to serve as our new Choral Music Director, effective January 2, 2020.

David brings extensive experience in church music and worship leadership as well as professional conducting of vocal groups outside the church setting. He has a bachelor's degree in choral conducting from Chapman University and a master's degree in choral conducting from the University of Oregon. For twenty-five years he has been Director of Worship Ministries at St. Andrew Presbyterian Church in Sonoma, CA. With St. Andrew Presbyterian in a period of leadership transition, David thought the timing was right for him to make his own transition as well. He is excited to work in a role that will utilize the skills he enjoys the most - conducting vocal and handbell choirs.

David said he was drawn to our position because he likes the emphasis we place on worship and the role music plays in contributing to the whole experience of worship. He believes it is important that a church choir be led spiritually as well as musically, so he takes time to teach the text of a musical piece as well as its composition. David values the skill level of our existing music staff—with Chris Studer, as Worship Music Director and John Pavik, as Organist. He looks forward to working closely with them as a team.

Outside of church, David serves as Artistic Director/Conductor for the Sonoma Valley Chorale which he has been leading since 2007, and was the associate conductor four years prior. He also serves as Associate Conductor (to Allan Petker, Conductor) for the Consort Chorale of Marin County, which he has done since 1996.

Comments about David received from his references: David is a consummate Church Music Director with tremendous understanding of Church music as well as all the skills of a professional choral director.... The depth of his music talent and leadership is phenomenal.... He has high standards, a great voice, and is an outstanding teacher—he is insightful, perceptive, and patient with others.... He is great at figuring out what a given group can do and helps make it happen.... He is a kind, strong leader who is collaborative and leads by inspiration.

We are grateful for God's leading and timing to bring David and our church together.

Alongside you for Christ, Dale
